Fierce Battle Growing

The further inland and have begun formation of their lines for the general battle which now seems inevitable. The entire fleet of French British ships is engaged in shelling the Turkish forts and land batteries. Athens dispatches reaching here today report that the assault upon the Dardanelles is gradually increasing in violence as the land forces advance and the guns from the greatest bombardment fleet ever assembled pour their fire upon the Turkish positions from inside the straits as well as from the coast of Gallipoli and the Aegean sea.

While the main attack of the warships is being made in support of the British landing forces, the French are directed to continuing their progress to the Asiatic side. At the admiralty only no confirmation had been received of the Turkish claims that several allied warships had been disabled. The Turkish claims are believed to be exaggerated, but officials admit it would not be surprising if the battleships had been hit. They steamed well within range of the forts, it was stated, in order to be able to use their secondary batteries.

Reports that the British have captured the town of Gallipoli are also unfounded. Engage Main Body. It is officially stated that the British forces south of Jemke have engaged the main body of the Turks. It is evident that the intention of the Dardanelles strategists is to isolate the Turkish forces through the operations of the land forces and then reduce them by cross fire from the warships firing from the straits and from the Gulf of Saros. The Turkish positions at Nagara were heavily bombarded by an indirect fire during last night.

The complete official statement concerning the landing operations issued last night resulted in the greatest satisfaction here. Colonial troops have distinguished themselves at the Gallipoli fighting. The Australian and New Zealand divisions carried forward their attacks upon the Turks with the greatest success. From April 25, when the landing of troops began, to the present steady progress has been made, the statement asserted. It is admitted, however, that heavy losses have been suffered.

Thousands Are Killed. Athens, May 1.—Reports reaching here today from Gallipoli bring word of thousands of Turks killed and wounded as the British landing force on the peninsula are steadily pressing forward toward the Bulair line of fortifications which must be passed in forcing the gate to Constantinople.

Dunkirk Still Bombarded. Berlin, via wireless to Sayville, L. I., May 1.—The bombardment of Dunkirk by German artillery continues today, it was officially announced here.

Russian Steamer Torpedoed. London, May 1.—The Russian steel ship, the Stavron, was torpedoed by a submarine off the coast of Ireland yesterday, the admiralty announced today. The Stavron was a vessel of 3,010 tons and carried a cargo of coal.

PRESS ADMITS THAT ENSEMBLE IS GREAT

Barrere Gives As Many As Five Concerts—Has Large Repertoire

When George Barrere gave his first concert in New York some six years ago with his now famous Barrere Ensemble of Wind Instruments the Press at one admitted it to be a triumph such as is indeed seldom accorded to a musical organization. At its excellence there was not a single dissenting voice, while a unanimous hope was expressed that it might endure, for, as the N. Y. Tribune put it: "In establishing this new organization Mr. Barrere has placed New York in his debt." Two publications, however, expressed a doubt as to whether a constant interest in this type of music could be maintained with "so limited a repertoire." These, however, reckoned without the composer Barrere, for with the same wave of his silver wand which disclosed the unsuspected beauties of the wind instruments themselves, he also brought to light not only a voluminous library of classic compositions, for the wind instruments, but also an astonishing amount of modern material, mainly from the pens of French composers.

For several years Barrere gave series of three and four concerts annually in New York and never repeated a single number, in fact when he was finally prevailed upon to repeat a well liked composition "by request" he felt it to be in the nature of a concession. From time to time he has played arrangements, but these only when the compositions were such as to make them eminently adaptable, as for instance "The Frogs" by Geo. W. Chadwick, or MacDowell's Woodland Sketches, both of which have a woodwind element about them.

On the transcontinental tour which the Barrere Ensemble is at present engaged upon it is playing as many as five separate and distinct programs, each of which practically runs the entire gamut of wind instrument expression. Beside classic and modern compositions for the entire Ensemble which comprises 1 flute, 2 oboes, 2 clarinets, 2 horns and 2 bassoons, they include little duos, trios and quartets of various combinations, thus enabling one to really become thoroughly acquainted not only with the separate instruments as to tone and technique, but to observe their peculiar color blendings when contrasted with one another. It is an interesting and fascinating study. To these programs are added a group of flute solos by that greatest of all players upon the flute, George Barrere, whose entrancing tone, and brilliant execution are the wonder and admiration of all while sincere never cease enquiring of him as to the secret of his amazing breath control.

Court House News

An action for the collection of a promissory note was begun in the circuit court yesterday when a complaint was filed by Carrie E. Blunt against A. L. and Ella Gray, and J. D. and Rosa Rodgers. The note is said to amount to $250 and is alleged not to have been paid. The case comes from Woodburn.

Robin E. Fisher, a minor aged 16 years, yesterday petitioned the county court to appoint D. W. Fisher, his father, as guardian in order to care for personal property in Henry county, Illinois, valued at $5,000. County Judge Busby made the order appointing the guardian as requested.

In the case of E. H. Reasoner against E. J. Sauter, an action in the circuit court, a demurrer to the amended complaint was filed yesterday alleging that several causes of action had been improperly added, that there were no facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, and that it was not begun within the time limit.

What is said to be an outgrowth of the attempt to secure a mother's pension by Mrs. Myrtle Adams from Marion county and which is said to be designed to discourage her from continuing her suit, is a complaint filed against Mrs. Adams by Mrs. C. H. Pickett alleging that the mother is not giving her three children, Blanche, Anna, and Frank, proper care and attention. The purpose of suit is said to be to take the children from Mrs. Adams.

An action for the recovery of money for services rendered in the construction of a fine and for carpentry work done was begun in the circuit court today by H. N. Smith against W. T. McRae and Willis Huddleston. The amount alleged to be due is $500. A lien was taken on the property and it is asked that it be sold.

Because the Statesman Publishing company is unable to determine who won first, second, third, fourth or fifth prizes in their recent puzzle figure contest, they have placed the matter in the hands of the circuit court, asking at the same time that an injunction be issued to restrain the following defendants from bringing up action against the company: Frank Patton, H. V. McLean, Stanislaus Janowski, H. C. Tillman, Charles Cox, Mrs. R. Jones, John Kieraldo and others.

The first prize offered was $300, the second $175, the third $100, and now it has developed there are two contestants claiming each prize so that the publishers find they cannot tell who is the real winner. The company tenders the amount of the total number of prizes, contested, $750, and asks the court to distribute it.

In the recent tax turnover made by County Treasurer Dringer, the amount of $75,695.13 was transferred to the various funds. Of this sum Salem gets $17,037.

Mrs. Blanche Adams, who was held before County Judge Busby this morning upon the charge of neglecting her children, which charges were preferred by Tenant Officer Max Pickett, she pleaded a jury trial, but when she was confronted by a jury composed of Walter S. Lowe, J. J. Ackerman, A. T. Wain, Steve McFadden, H. A. Johnson, Sr. and Marion Koken, it is stated that she gave up in despair and offered to compromise upon condition that the neighbors women get in and assist her in cleaning her children up and taking care of them, which they had agreed to do. Mrs. Adams is receiving aid from the county, and it is understood she made, or was about to make, application for relief under the widows' pension act.

"Is Casey in the jug?" "Yes; and he won't be uncorked for ten days."
